Stats, based on getting selected for some interview based on the first impression and being presentable was an eye-opener for many.

OUT CAMPUS EVENT

6th FAMILY BUSINESS CONFERENCE, 2019

Army Institute of Management, Kolkata marked its presence at the 6th Family Business Conference 2019 which was organized by CII in collaboration with FBN. Longevity is indeed a highly valued commodity in any business. An oft-quoted fact is the statistics that only 30% of family-owned businesses make it to the second generation, with the figure plummeting to 13% for the third generation and eventually only 3% of family businesses make it to the fourth generation of ownership.

The most successful business-owning families do not put profit maximization first. When one spends time with them, one notices that they have an intense pride for the business and its pride. They also have a real deep sense of family, unity and mutual support. The implication for those seeking to emulate the most successful family firms whether or not they are a family firm is profound. There are however no easily imitable competences. Success is more about character and resilience.
